Give Thanks On Starting New Church

Ground is Broken on Site of New Congregational Church

Impressive Ceremonies Are Conducted After Contract Is Let

Thanksgiving Day, 1927, will remain a memorable occasion for the members of the Congregational Church and a milestone of community progress. The anniversary of the observance inaugurated by the Pilgrim Fathers was the occasion for the ground breaking ceremonies on the site of the new church. The impressive service was largely attended, the perfect weather making the outdoor setting a delightful one.

Rev. A. O. Pritchard presided and the music was led by the Sunday School orchestra with Gus Rihard, the leader, playing a portable organ. The young people's chorus under direction of Mrs. E. E. Bacon sang two selections.

On behalf of the building committee and board of directors E. E. Bacon announced that the building contract with the firm of Witt & Chute had been formally signed and recorded and work would start at once. The necessary loan to provide working funds against outstanding pledges had been negotiated with the Pacific-Southwest Bank of Pasadena. This was made possible through indorsement of the church notes by fifteen members. The notes will be retired when the building is completed and a mortgage will be placed on the property for any indebtedness outstanding at that time.

While the contract as let provides only for the erection of the educational plant of the church, costing approximately $38,000, Mr. Bacon said, the church has the option of contracting within 90 days for the remaining unit to complete the building. It is the earnest hope of the building committee that sufficient additional contributions will come in soon to warrant proceeding with the entire structure.

The service included a responsive reading led by Dennis H. Stovall and the reading of the president's Thanksgiving proclamation by Miss Betty Moore.

After brief and appropriate remarks, Mr. Pritchard took the lead in the actual ground breaking. Sinking the shovel deep, he repeated an appropriate scripture text and then removed the earth. He then called upon a representative of each department and auxiliary organization of the church to do likewise. After the various official representatives had taken their turn, the opportunity was given to all who desired to do so, and a large number shared in the exercises in this way.

The occasion was an anniversary in a double sense. It was a year ago on Sunday that the members brought together their pledges as a Thanksgiving offering for the start of the building fund. Since

SCHOOL CHILDREN ALLOWED TO REST AFTER TURKEYDAY

Like the fortunate Europeans of the past century, who were able to lie around home and recuperate from a too hearty celebration of Christmas and other holidays when feasts were the order of the day, school children are today having a vacation.

Dismissed during the afternoon Wednesday, when most of the classes had Thanksgiving exercises in some form or another, classes will not be resumed until Monday morning. In such a manner little Johnny was able to take a second and even a third helping of mince pie, to say nothing of the turkey eaten previously, without a thought of a listless tomorrow in the school room.

Several plays, featuring the first Thanksgiving in America, numerous readings and recitations and a general festive air, supplied by pictures and cut-outs made by the art class prevailed at the school house Wednesday afternoon, and many of the parents visited during the day.

Tally Votes For Election Of Directors

Chamber of Commerce Lists To Be Gone Over Next Monday Night

Votes will be tallied Monday night in the final election of the Chamber of Commerce directors, and all ballots must be in the office before 5 o'clock Monday. Five names on the list of ten submitted by Gordon Brooks, secretary, must be marked. Candidates having the highest number of votes will serve as directors on the board for the coming year.

Delay in mailing of the ballots to members of the organization was caused by the fact that after the list had been selected for the primary election, half of the candidates withdrew, and it was necessary for another election. A committee composed of Walter Poehler, Charles Klunk and C. B. Scott will tally the votes Monday evening, and five directors from the following list will be selected: Ray Grant, R. C. Copenhaver, W. E. Pratt, G. I. Farman, George Mesecar, H. E. Allen, Dr. John Woehler, Dr. Gilbert Bovard, John Hapgood and R. G. McLellan.

Officers will be elected by the directors at a meeting following the final election, and immediately afterward plans for the annual membership drive will be made. At that time the total pledges and cash on hand has mounted to approximately $40,000 toward the $65,000 needed for completion of the building. With the memory of the years' accomplishment and the evidence of near realization of anxious hopes the members went to their homes with full hearts and a keen relish for their Thanksgiving dinners.

FLOOD SUFFERER PRAISES WORK OF RED CROSS IN STRICKEN AREA

Extract from a letter written by the wife and mother in a family living near Rutland, Vermont. She operated an auto camp, her husband being engaged in other work.

"Your telegram meant much to us. Our desolation was great. We escaped barely with our lives, clinging with our kiddies, to the stone wall of a meadow, with the river flowing over its top, wading to our knees. We sought shelter with a neighbor on the hill, and, after listening all night to the horrible roar and crashing, returned to find our new cabins, with all their furnishings, swept away. The water shed, icehouse, rest rooms, woodshed, all gone, and the river running where they had stood.

We built a foot bridge of planks and moved our household goods to a neighbor's where we rented room to store them. There is no road out, so they must stay until a road is built. Our house is settling fast, as it is torn from its foundation. Our furnace is buried in debris, our floors covered with silt. We are afraid the Spring will finish the destruction, but it will matter little, for what was our camp ground is now deep gullies of rock, and deep river.

"We were the only family, in our town, completely ruined, which is fortunate. The bridge and roads are gone entirely, and local men are volunteering to help build a temporary bridge in the village.

"All we had we put into our venture. We put everything we could into making our campgrounds a success. Hundreds told us it was the prettiest ground between Boston and Montreal. It is all swept away over night. But there is a rift on the clouds. We are assured of Federal aid for the roads (they are gone entirely) and the Red Cross promises help to those who are ruined, like us, although we, ourselves, have not applied.

"We have never refused the Red Cross, but maybe never have given all we could. Now we feel what has our dollar or two been to such an organization? They are doing wonderful work for those who are entirely without shelter, food or clothing, and promise help in replacing wrecked homes.

Red Cross To Sign 75 More Names Soon

Sierra Madre Fails to Raise Quota of 750 Members During Drive

Clean-up to Clear Remaining Amount Before Report Is Mailed

Despite the fact that Sierra Madre subscribed $1050 and 675 members to the American Red Cross, there is a deficiency of 75 members which must be made up before the returns are sent into national headquarters, according to a report made today by Robert Mitchell, at the close of the two week drive.

Mr. Mitchell stated that, from past experience, he believes the town will rally to the support of the local chapter, and that the memberships will be offered before it is necessary to send in the final report.

For the past five years Sierra Madre has not failed to subscribe to its quota, and each year has had the highest per capita record of any town in Southern California. Those who have given so freely of their time during the campaign are jealous of the chapter's reputation, and would like to remain at the head of the list.

While Mr. Mitchell, who has been constantly on duty for the past two weeks, will be unable to remain over next week in Sierra Madre, W. R. Humphries, president of the chamber of commerce will take subscriptions, and an earnest plea is sent out to every person in town to fall in line with the nation, providing he has not yet done so.

The spirit of the Red Cross drive is exemplified by Rol King, former Sierra Madre resident, who is at present living in New York. Mr. King, who takes the Sierra Madre News and Press, read about the drive, and from his eastern home, mailed a check to Mr. Mitchell, saying that he wanted his half of the membership fee to be used here.

Kiwanis Club Of Altadena Entertained

Altadena Kiwanis club came over in a body to meet with the Sierra Madre club and conduct the meeting on Tuesday. The delectable luncheon served by the Woman's club members put everybody in a splendid mood for the program to follow. President Jack Bates kept so much fun going during the meal that the crowd could even feel good humored at the prospect of a serious discourse to follow.

Kiwanian Jack Hatch was program chairman for the day and announced that a friend of his had recently returned from travels abroad and would discuss the European situation, then introducing Mr. Regnier as the speaker. The latter arose and with solemn mien started out in a manner that kept most of his hearers guessing for some time. But it was not long before they were exploding with laughter and the fun was kept up until the finish. Mr. Regnier proved by his impersonations to be a genuine artist.

In the absence of President "Rusty" Herbert, Vice President Ray Grant announced a meeting of the club members which will be held in his parlors next Monday night at 7:30. The date was changed from tonight to avoid conflict with the play to be given by the Guild Players. All members of the club are urged to be present at this meeting.

Central Avenue Extension Will Be Mapped Out

A preliminary survey of a proposed extension of Central Avenue from its present termination at Sierra Madre Avenue to Pasadena will be started within a few days, and Henry Gierlich of Monrovia has been appointed engineer in charge of the work.

It is the plan of the property owners and the city to obtain necessary data, along with the estimate of the work, which will be turned into the county supervisors with the request that the street be extended under the provisions of the Mattoon Act.

Eastern Star In Last Session of Official Period

Last meeting of the chapter year with the retiring officers in the chairs was held by the Eastern Star chapter Monday night. Mrs. Harry Holland was initiated into the order with Mrs. Milton Steinberger presiding as worthy matron, and T. W. Mailer as patron.

Following the chapter session a social hour was enjoyed in the banquet hall, where beautifully appointed tables in green and white had been arranged. Mrs. Bradley Metcalf was in charge of the arrangements and had the assistance of Mrs. Baskins, Miss Saenger, Mrs. R. A. Adams, Mrs. Donald C. Ashmore, Mrs. Tom Schwartz and Miss Linda Schwartz.

The members took great delight in inspecting new furnishings and finishing work installed at the expense of the chapter and paid for out of the proceeds of the Wistaria Fete. These included a handsome settee and cushions, rug and fern stand in the entrance hall where the floor had also been given a new finish. In the kitchen the walls and woodwork had been given a handsome coat of enamel. Some other features will be added in the near future which will increase the comfort and attractiveness of the temple.

Play to Draw Big Audience On 1st Night

Guild Players Present Fine Drama at Woman's Club House

Every spectator will have a ringside seat this evening when the gong sounds for the featured bout between Grace and Tommie Tucker, at the Woman's Clubhouse. Not only will those holding reserved seats be allowed to witness the battle which occurred during the second act of "The First Year," but they will also be allowed inside the training quarters at the home of the bride's parents in Reading 111, and will be present at the knockout, which also occurs at "mother's" home.

The heated contest, in which Gracie, the young bride retires to her corner victor of the encounter but none too happy about it, takes place in the home of the young couple at Joplin, Mo.

The comic tragedy, woven around the first year of married life, that period of adjustments, centers in the thirst of a small town belle to travel, and the efforts of her adoring husband to satisfy that craving for strange places by taking her to Joplin, where he attempts to pull off a big business deal which will mean Europe for Gracie.

Leads are taken by Mrs. Randolph Wood and David Buchan as Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Tucker, supported by Mrs. James Andrew Hawks, Cecily Allen, Bessy Glenn, R. M. Finlayson, the Rev. H. B. Moore, Stafford Sadler and Charles Hall Perry.

The play, one of the most engrossing ever written has just opened at one of the large uptown theatres, and gives promise of having a long and successful run. As produced locally under the direction of Mrs. Allen, the play loses none of its significance and as a vehicle for an evening's entertainment is perfect.

The Guild Players are presenting the production under the auspices of and for the benefit of the Church of the Ascension. Proceeds are to go into the Parish House fund. Candy will be sold during acts, and special music will be furnished by Woodson F. Jones, who is loaning an orthophonic victrola for the occasion. Tickets are on sale at the Central Pharmacy.

Auxiliary Urged to Attend Program

Although Tuesday night was to have been the date set for a specially called meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Ralph Stewart, president, has postponed the session on account of the police program, to be presented by Nick Harris, Sergeant Johnson and the Police quartet of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Stewart is making a special request that all Auxiliary members attend the program, which might be taken as a part of the Americanization work. The entertainment will be given in the Woman's Club house, and there will be no charge for admission.

City to Open Churchill Rd. Immediately

Councilmen Overrule Protests at Meeting Tuesday Evening

Property Owners Along Road Have Wrong Impression, It Is Stated

Action has been started to open Churchill road, from Mountain view northeast to Marlboro Terrace, the road having been ordered opened by the city council at the meeting Tuesday evening. At that time protests, filed several weeks ago, when the matter was first broached, were overruled by the council.

Some 12 residents, representing nearly all of the territory along the proposed road, appeared Tuesday to protest and to present their side of the matter to the councilmen. During the course of the hearing it came to light that the protestants believed the action to mean that improvement would start at once, and they were not ready financially to meet the expense. When it was explained that improvements would not follow the opening of the road for perhaps two years, most of those present withdrew protests.

The road will provide an outlet to the territory now known as Marlboro Terrace, but formerly called the Levi Richardson ranch. Further action regarding improvement of streets in Sierra Madre was taken in the matter of paving certain portions of Auburn, Carter, Hermosa and Elm, and resolution of intention to improve the property was passed.

Application of U. A. and E. A. Calvert to erect a corrugated iron service station and rest room at 52 N. Baldwin was presented to the board but owing to the fact that the site is inside the restricted fire district, the street and police commission were instructed to investigate the matter.

Mitchell Will Close Sierra Madre Office

Attorney Robert Mitchell is moving his office from Sierra Madre to Los Angeles this week. He is vacating the quarters over Welscher's store which he has occupied for several years and will no longer make his twice-a-week visits to Sierra Madre.

In the future Mr. Mitchell will make his office in Suite 515 Helman Building, Fourth and Sprng, Los Angeles. He will have quarters with the firm of Parker, Moore and Longcroft, of which F. D. R. Moore of Sierra Madre is a member.

During the past two weeks Mr. Mitchell has devoted practically all his time to the Red Cross Roll Call in Sierra Madre. For the next three weeks the annual sale of Christmas Seals for the tuberculosis committee of the Los Angeles County Health Association will be in progress. Mr. Mitchell being chairman of the committee. These are only two of the numerous public activities to which he has devoted his time and energy freely without any financial or material recompense.

Mitchell Dinner to Be Served at the Masonic Temple

As a community tribute to Robt. Mitchell, who is transferring his business and home to Los Angeles, a dinner is being arranged under the auspices of the chamber of commerce, and the date has been tentatively set as Monday evening, December 5.

Billy Murphy, whose steak dinners have made him famous, will serve the dinner in the Masonic Temple, and members of the Woman's club will decorate the tables. The following committee is working out the arrangements: H. E. Allen, Dean Wm. Carson Shaw, George Morgridge and W. R. Humphries.

Mr. Mitchell has just completed one of his many services to the community with the closing of the Red Cross drive, and much of the success of the campaign is due to his personal activity. For five years he has materially aided in placing Sierra Madre at the head of the list of Southern California towns during the roll call.

NEWS OFFICE PHONE NUMBER CHANGED TO "MAIN 260," FRIDAY

Whether it is information regarding the score of a football game, the outcome of an election, the date of an entertainment or the address of a friend which is sought, the number to call is MAIN 260, the new number of the Sierra Madre News and Press telephone.

The old number, Black 42, with which everyone is familiar, has been discarded because of the fact that to retain it the News office would have had to remain on the same line with another business house.

Since Black 42 had been the number of this office for nineteen years, the plan of a party line was given what may be termed a fair trial, but resulted in inconvenience for all parties concerned.

Calls for Black 42 will be switched to Main 260, the new number.

Fire Started By Heater In Bedroom

Dense Smoke Pours from Thomas Residence On Highland

Smoke pouring out of the windows and doors of her home at 118 East Highland Avenue Thursday morning at 11:30 was the sight which greeted the eyes of Mrs. Arthur Thomas as she rounded the corner on her way home from Thanksgiving services at the church.

She immediately turned in the alarm and within a few minutes the entire fire department, with the exception of three men, were working themselves through the dense smoke, reported to be the most blinding ever encountered in a local fire, into the bedroom where the blaze had started.

With the use of smoke chemicals the fire was extinguished in short time with the result that only the mattress and covers on the bed were damaged. Mrs. Thomas had been absent for forty minutes, and evidently arrived at the psychological moment to save her house from complete destruction by fire.

The blaze originated in the bedroom, where a small electric heater had been shoved under the bed. In leaving the room Mrs. Thomas switched on the current, believing she was turning it out, and the heat ignited the bedding. Damage is estimated at under one hundred dollars.

"BOY" OCCUPYS UNIQUE PLACE IN HEARTS OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

He has one black eye, the only touch of color on an otherwise snowy ensemble, but if anyone thinks he cannot see out of the dark optic, just let that person attempt to molest any of the children on the school grounds, where he has been self-appointed watchman for the past three years.

His name is Boy, and he is affectionately hailed by 300 youngsters each morning as he passes among them on the school grounds wagging his tail and rubbing his nose into tiny hands for the unfailing pat.

Never is the day to stormy for Boy to put in an appearance, generally far in advance of the pupils, and never has he been late. Boy is a white shepherd, and his legal master is Gerald Wark, but he has long since been adopted by 300 children. Three years ago, like Mary's little lamb of the same snowy fleece, he followed Gerald to school. Because he was quiet but insistent, he was allowed inside of room 12 where his master studied.

Gerald has since left for junior high in Pasadena, but Boy remains faithful to the grammar school. He seldom lifts his voice, either in anger or in glee, but

Society and Personal

Club to Arrange Christmas Tree

Children of the community are looking forward to the annual Christmas treat, planned by the Woman's Club, and Mrs. Robert Steinberger is in charge of the event this year. A huge Christmas tree will be erected in the clubhouse, and there will be gifts of candy and popcorn for each small child present.

Although the affair is for the children of the community, there is an age limit of twelve years, and all youngsters over that age are barred from the party. Each child must also be sponsored by some member of the club, either accompanied by her, or have a card. There is, however, no limit to the number of children each member may invite.

BUYING VITAMIN C

Food must be bought with "vitamin knowledge" as well as for economy. Careful cooking of food must follow careful buying. Heating greatly reduces Vitamin C. Home cooking is more destructive than commercial cooking.

Always select the very freshest vegetables and fruits, ageing and drying affects vitamin C. The white potato is a valuable vitamin C vegetable. It is plentiful and cheap. Such vegetables as cabbage, spinach, lettuce and tomatoes, are even richer in vitamin C, but are not always as cheap or available. Fresh, raw young carrots and white turnips are also good. All these vegetables, with the exception of tomatoes, lose much of vitamin C upon heating, especially the green leafy vegetables.

Use daily a generous portion of raw vegetables. Resort to canned tomatoes for vitamin C if fresh ones are unavailable.

Even for the baby the tomato juice is just as good as the orange juice in preventing scurvy. Milk contains little vitamin C and loses that upon prolonged heating, therefore the baby must get vitamin C from other sources than milk. All citrus fruits, oranges, grapefruits, lemons and limes are well known for their vitamin C. Raw apples and bananas (use ripe) are also good sources.

Families may be living on the border line of scurvy diet yet not know it except for the common aches and pains. Eating much much meat, breads, overcooked vegetables and little of raw fruits and vegetables is thought to produce "winter rheumatism" in adults and the so-called "growing pains" (rheumatism) of the child. Being "naturally lazy" and "not fond of work" are generally attributed to the low vitamin C fed adult.

Children's teeth show first and most extensively the effect of latent scurvy. The restless, under-par and slowly growing child often improves with more vitamin C foods. Body resistance is improved with adequate vitamin C supply.

Every day feed the whole family fresh, raw fruits and vegetables to provide them with the very important vitamin C.—Christmas Seal Service.

THE NEEDED TOUCH

The stores in the Isaacs buildings along the south side of Central, and even the post office around the corner, have presented an unusual touch this week, with large bouquets of asters and other fall flowers. One bunch in one store might not have made an impression. But the whole row of stores, each with its floral display, made a cumulative effect which was decidedly unusual. One of the merchants volunteered the information on that the flowers were brought to them by Mr. Isaacs.

Immediately the thought comes to mind, how little it takes to raise a place of business, out of the commonplace. Just a little extra thought, or effort, or evidence of taste and ingenuity. It is easy to get into the rut, but it is also easy to get out. It is well worth the effort, and it is decidedly necessary when every store is in competition with every other store within driving radius of the nearby population.

Limas with Asparagus

Cook 2 cups of lima beans in chicken stock until tender and liquid is nearly evaporated. Arrange in the center of a serving dish. Arrange canned asparagus, heated and drained, radiating to edge of dish. Reduce the stock to 1-3 cup, add ¼ cup butter and pour over all. Decorate with thin strips of pimiento.

Lima-Tomato Salad

Peel small tomatoes (in number corresponding to persons to be served), remove centers and fill with cooked lima beans mixed with mayonnaise dressing and leaf of lettuce, cover with mayonnaise, thick, using powdered sugar to naise and place around the tomato on the lettuce a row of cooked lima beans sprinkled with a dash of paprika.

Jeweled Evening Bags are Chic.

The powder and lip rouge, the hankie and comb so essential to one's attractiveness, fit nicely into little rhinestone evening bags that are quite in keeping with the sparkle and glamour of formal affairs. On metal frames they are sometimes square and sometimes pouch shaped, and when not studded with rhinestones, gold beads and imitation pearls are used.

Studying Types in Costumes.

Paramount on the list of commandments for the well dressed woman is "Thou Shall observe thy type, that thou shall make the best of thy good points and render less apparent thy deficiencies." If a lady ignores this most important rule, she is liable to find her personality completely submerged in the sophisticated modes of the moment.

Few women can remodel their figures to the exact height and slenderness Paris decrees as the ideal of smartness, but it is within everyone's power to create an illusion of greater or less height, or of less or more poundage by discrimination in the selection of lines.

For the short woman, costumes either devoid of elaborate trimming, or with ornamentation only at the hem and neckline will give impression of added height. For the tall woman, frocks with bodice and skirt of contrasting color or with teirs are especially designed.

Slanting lines, so much the thing at the present time, are boons to the plump matron, and achieve the slenderizing effect of straight lines, but in a more subtle manner.

Necklines are important this season, and while the popular V-line is becoming to the slightly overweight madame it should be studiously avoided by the woman whose neck is a bit long or tends toward extreme slenderness. The cowl neckline, with its soft draping and oval or rounded necklines are allies of the very slender.

Period gowns with bouffant skirts add to the charm of youth, just as conservative modes with slim classic lines help women of years to attain the elegance and simplicity so flattering to maturity.

Hints on Proper Social Actions.

Q. A young man calls on a girl for the first time. He lives outside of the city. Is it proper, when he is leaving, for the girl to ask him to write, or should she leave that to him?

A. That should be the young man's privilege. He should ask permission to write and should be the first to write.

Holiday Sandwiches for Supper time.

Make filling a few days ahead. Put between slices of bread in the morning and surprise the family with a delicious hot sandwich without fussing in the kitchen at supper time. Only a minute to dip and fry them.

1 cup chopped cooked ham
2 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon salt

2 tablespoons chopped sour pickle
2 tablespoons chopped raw green peppers.

Mix all together. Moisten with enough mayonnaise to make quite soft. Spread filling between two slices of bread cut from small loaf. Hold together with toothpicks. Beat one egg; mix with ¼ cup milk. Dip each sandwich in milk and egg. Brown in hot fat on both sides in frying pan. Will make 8 sandwiches.

Date Nut Candy

1 package of dates
¼ cup walnuts
¼ pound Dromedary Cocoanut
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind

Run dates, nuts and cocoanut through the grinder, moisten with fruit juice, knead in the rind and roll out to a sheet half an inch broken walnut meats. Place on keep from sticking. Cut into fancy shapes.

A WORTH WHILE STORY

"UNPREMEDITATED hospitality," was the title of an address given in Sierra Madre nearly twenty years ago by a prominent physician from a nearby city. He dealt with the problem imposed upon Southern California communities by the influx of health seekers from all parts of the world. He gave startling figures concerning the number of people coming in search of relief from tubercular and kindred ailments. He showed the necessity of measures for the protection of others from infection, and also for the relief and care of newcomers unable to provide suitable living conditions for themselves.

Out of that club meeting and frequent conferences came the hiring of a municipal nurse in Sierra Madre and the organization of what was called the "Anti-tuberculosis Society." The Sierra Madre group pioneered in such work. Funds were raised first by voluntary subscription, and later by the sale of Christmas seals by the school children. The local movement became part of a state-wide organization. This was before the war time requirements caused the formation of a Red Cross chapter in every community.

After a few years the "anti" was dropped from the name of the society, to prevent any interpretation which would imply hostility to victims of the disease. Helpfulness was the sole motive in the work which was gaining force and effectiveness every year. Sierra Madre carried on the sale of Christmas seals every year, establishing high records for communities of similar size.

Partly as a result of the educational work done by the society and partly because of advance in medical science and control over the disease, the passing years saw a great improvement in conditions. The number of deaths and of tuberculosis cases in proportion to population showed a great falling off. The agencies which had been concentrating on the problem were able to broaden the scope of their work. Many related problems were included. The name of the organization was again changed, this time to the Public Health Association.

With the great increase in financial requirements the method of disposing of the Christmas seals was changed from personal to mail solicitation. The period between Thanksgiving and Christmas has come to be the established time for raising funds for the wonderful work of the society.

This year the seals will be mailed out as usual in sheets of 100 at a dollar each. When you receive your consignment, don't put it aside and forget it, and don't return it if you can possibly spare the dollar to help along the work. The history of those little Christmas seals is brightened with the memory of thousands of individuals helped, countless others protected from danger of which they were perhaps unaware, and a tremendous improvement in what was a menacing public health situation twenty years ago. Do your part and help the good work along.

SMILE OVER THE TELEPHONE

IS your telephone an asset or a liability? Depends chiefly on the way calls are answered. Some business men talk over the phone as if the thing were an infernal nuisance to them and they were conferring a distinct favor in even answering it, let alone transacting business by that method. And the manner of the boss is very apt to be reflected in the attitude of his employees when they are telephoning.

Telephone habits are like everything else that is so familiar to us that we accept it "as is" without question. Many a business man would do well to step outside of his store, and put himself in the place of a customer who is calling on the phone. Is the response cheerful, cordial? Is the attitude receptive and alert, or does the person answering seem bored or annoyed? If the impression he gets as an outsider is unfavorable, he has some educating to do among his staff, and perhaps some self-education also.

BUSINESS IS GOOD

DULL business conditions which have been the subject of complaint among various merchants during the fall seem to be decidedly on the upgrade. While there is still complaint in some quarters, many other business houses are busy and report conditions as excellent. A good deal seems to depend on the mental attitude of the merchant. There is certainly nothing inviting to trade in the long face and complaining tone which so easily becomes a habit in dull times. And the merchant who allows his store to become disorderly and his stock ill kept in periods of discouragement is also apt to drop his advertising and every other means of attracting trade when he needs it most. With business taking a marked turn for the better, right now is a good time to change front and make an extra effort to gain momentum which will carry far beyond the holidays.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES

FROM an undergraduate publication comes this bit of advice to faculty members on how to make a student understand anything:

1. Tell him what you are going to say.
2. Say it.
3. Summarize what you have said.
4. Write him a letter.

(The assumption is that the student will be able to read.)

On a par with that is a set of rules for all public speakers. The fact that it comes from a student publication does not make it any the less applicable to speakers in general. The rules are as follows:

1. Stand up so you can be seen.
2. Speak up so you can be heard.
3. Sit down so you can be appreciated.

CALIFORNIA SCHOOLS

CALIFORNIA schools are a $160,000,000 enterprise, according to figures made public by the educational commission of the California Tax Payers' Association. The study made by the commission covered the fiscal year 1925-1926 and revealed that the fifty-eight counties spent $40,800,000 for education; the 3260 school districts, $80,760,000 for education; the state, $21,750,000 and the Federal government, $545,000. In addition there was a total payment of over $15,000,000 for interest and bond redemption.

INFRINGING ON ONE'S RIGHTS

(Punkte Journal)

A DETERMINED effort is expected this winter to put the "Burglar License Law" on the statute books of many states. The law is not called by that name, but that is the effect of the anti-firearm frenzy now going the rounds. It would assure every burglar, holdup and ravisher that there was no pistol in the home or on the person of his intended victim. It cannot possibly take away from the thug the ability to own and use pistols; it deprives the honest citizen the right to protect himself from assault, being in effect an invitation to thuggery of every sort.

The logical outcome of any anti-pistol law must be the prohibition of all fire arms. It is possible, within a few minutes, to convert any rifle or shotgun into a "pistol," and a sawed-off shotgun-pistol, even if small arms were destroyed, would be as deadly a thug weapon as any gun ever made. To prevent such conversion, all fire-arms must be prohibited.

A free, hunt-loving, self-respecting American cannot face such a foolish alternative. The anti-pistol fantasy must give way to laws that punish the gun-criminal, but allow the honest man the privilege of self-defense and to legitimate sport unmolested.

Fire Flames

By "One of the Boys"

How many tickets have you sold? I hope you have better success than the writer. Some fellow or fellows must be doing pretty well—most of the folks that I have accosted have been supplied by some other bird or else I happen to meet the "crab" who refuses to buy one. It's a good thing for the kiddies that all the fellows are not like me or there wouldn't be a community Christmas Tree so far as the tickets are concerned. We don't expect everyone to buy a ticket if he does not feel inclined to.

Despite the above "conflagration" the boys are out to win and the Christmas Fund looks as tho sufficient cash will be available by Christmas to "carry on" the usual annual Christmas Tree and treat, etc.

Stay with it, boys, and I'll do my "durnest." I HAVE sold SOME, perhaps more than imagined. As a rule the majority of the people are anxious to help. There are very few of the so-called "crabs," but boy! they make me want to sell 'em a ticket.

There hasn't been a meeting since publication of last "Flames" so "news are scarce." What have you?

We all had a good time at the Legion dance last Friday, but I didn't bring home a turkey. The crowd at this Armistice Day celebration surely enjoyed themselves.

It was too bad that more of us didn't get to Pomona last week. The demonstration given by them was certainly worth while. To see the equipment of these places makes us feel slighted, according to our present equipment. Nevertheless we have fond hopes and faithful promises for some very much needed material.

There is still quite a little discussion as to who writes the "Fire Flames." Personally I think it is Don Hosford.

Whoever failed to have a good time at the Monrovia Fireboys Reception (held last Wednesday evening), must have been minus a leg or a coffee hater. "Stoo bad our chief couldn't have enjoyed some of that coffee. Oh, well, Bill, we couldn't all leave town and with you and Vern Udell at home, I know the Sierra Madre townspeople were safe. Not to mention the important remainder.

Frank Lovell will now have a fire truck all his own to play with. Spot number six won for him a nice little truck, and I heard that his wife took charge immediately and I can understand now why he always looks so henpecked.

Pete tried hard to win a box of candy by dancing on one spot all evening.

Our plumber member, Babbitt, made some good connections and wrenched himself justice. By the way, Mrs. Babbitt is a very nice dancer. George Norris stepped around as tho he had his wife's approval. Why not? She seemed to be very popular. Frank Hilbrand still thinks he is young and if dancing denotes youth, he is an infant (so his wife said). Jim Heasley staggered across the floor to about every note but his knees are more wobbly now. Everybody knows who is boss at their house. Tom Schwartz stuck his nose in the hall long enough to learn that he couldn't sell a radio there, so he left. Our former chief, Henderson, blew in from somewhere and displayed his usual talent at the light fantastic. Everyone reported a very good time. I'm sorry I missed it. However there were many other of our dance hounds that were not permitted to go. 'Twon't be long now until December 9, when the whole town will dance at the S. M. Woman's Club. Let's go!

Next Friday is regular practice and meeting night, so abide thereby. If you don't come, you'll miss a very good lecture to be given by Vern Udell. He has several topics to choose from and to date he is undecided. It may be "Water, water everywhere and still no swimming pool," or maybe "Still water never runs." This will be followed by a vocal solo by Keegan entitled, "Keep Away from the Canyon or You Might Get Shot." Keegan will be accompanied at the heel by Gordon and Bill. If there are any surviving this ordeal, Frank Lovell is supposed to resuscitate them by serving an exquisite and elaborate dinner consisting of roast duck (by Roy Walsworth), mashed potatoes, rhubarb (blood-shot celery), radishes, turnips, carrots, etc., etc., to be followed by ice cream and cake, plus he-man Java. Wallace Beery will also tell us how to "Save My Child." As Vern has water on the brain it would be advisable to leave the wives at home. You should attend this meeting and hope that you can attend another. If this doesn't bring you out, you should stay away more and be put out. Don't forget to "dress up" in the proper regalia.

Trace All Alphabets to Symbolic Pictures

While printing, of course, has unlocked the intelligence of the world, still even before printing there were records and communications. At first, these merely consisted of pictures. Then the pictures were arranged in series so that there was narration. Next, through use, these pictures became symbols, that is, they were given a phonetic value. For example, the circle which the Egyptians used to represent the sun, in time became a symbol.

It was the Assyrians, however, who were first to take these various symbols and give them arbitrary values phonetically. They were still pictures, but they conveyed sounds.

Thus was formed the basis of all alphabets. Roman, Hebrew, Greek, Russian, Turkish, Armenian and Arabic. Different these may seem, but all can be traced back to the common origin.

Take the letter "A" of today. In the Phoenician-Assyrian alphabet that letter represented an ox and was designated by a conventional ox's head. The Greeks took it and turned it upside down, refined it and made it more graceful. In Hebrew, the word Beth is very common. Originally, it was an upright rectangle with a cross stroke in the center. In other words, a drawing of a house, which is what it means in Hebrew. Now the old rectangle with the corners rounded is B, that also being due to Greek influence, the Greeks favoring the curved line of beauty rather than the rigid rectangle.

Telephonic Impasse

A telephone operator was at one end of the wire and a little girl, who had answered her ring, at the other. The operator, obeying one of the rules laid down by the company, was trying to get the child to call an older person. She began, according to the rule, by asking:
"Is your mamma there?"
"No."
"Is your sister there?"
"No. There's no one here but grandma and me and the cat. Grandma can't hear and the cat can't talk."

Got Through, All Right

Recently there visited in this city a genuine old Georgia "crack" or from the outlying piney woods section of that state. While here he attended for the first time in his life an Episcopal church service. Later he remarked to a friend:
"It was all as interestin' as a 'possum hunt. I never did know much o' what all the folks about me was a doin', but I jest kept my 'em about me an' fell an' ris with 'em every time."—Boston Globe.

Mexicans a Problem of Farm Labor

Their Help is Needed, According to Citrus Exchange Men

The possibility of Mexican immigration being placed under quota restrictions at the next meeting of Congress met with vigorous protest last week when the California Fruit Growers Exchange and Farmers Convention, in annual meeting at Stockton, and the directorate of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, representing over 11,000 citrus growers, each passed resolutions against the proposed legislation.

Dr. George Clements, manager of the agricultural department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, is chairman of a committee representing southern California at a meeting with other border state chamber of commerce representatives being held at El Paso for a discussion of this proposed immigration legislation.

The resolution of the Exchange board of directors follows: WHEREAS, There is movement on foot to change the present immigration laws which would include Mexico among the other countries subject to quota restrictions, thus practically eliminating the continued supply of labor from that country.

WHEREAS, Mexico has for years furnished a satisfactory and adequate source of labor supply for the agricultural industries of the Southwest which has made possible their present development. WHEREAS, There is no other man power available for this class of work, and a close source of labor supply is necessary to handle the seasonal peaks of the different crops.

WHEREAS, Any interference with this labor supply would seriously reduce the total output and consequently increase the price of essential foodstuffs to the consumer; and

WHEREAS, The California citrus industry represents an investment of $300,000,000 and such interference with an adequate labor supply would seriously menace the prosperity and continued development of this and other agricultural industries which produce essential foods and are vital to the economic welfare of California, NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the California Fruit Growers Exchange, representing 11,000 citrus growers urge our representatives in Congress to exert every effort to prevent the enactment of such legislation detrimental to the agricultural of this and many other states.

News Notes From Wilson Junior High

Woodrow Wilson Junior High School was especially favored on Wednesday afternoon in having a fine Thanksgiving program. The orchestra opened the program by playing two numbers.

The rest of the program was as follows: "The Origin of Thanksgiving Day," by Harold Keltz; a solo, "The Breaking Waves Dashed High," by Betty Van Houten; "The First Thanksgiving," by Treva Scott. The speaker of the afternoon, Mr. Dowling, gave an interesting talk. He stressed the value of the development of muscle, mind, manners and morals. The program closed with "Joy of Harvest," sung by the student body.

Girls' Courtesy Club

Among the very interesting clubs of Woodrow Wilson Junior High School is the Girls' Courtesy Club. This club was organized under the supervision of Miss Oliver. Its principal aim is suggested in the name, Courtesy. To carry out this aim the club is divided into four committees: courtesy toward the faculty; courtesy toward the student body; courtesy in public, and courtesy in the home.

Thursday, November 17, the club served tea to the faculty. The girls wore white aprons with blue caps trimmed in white, which they have made.

At the first meeting of the club the following officers were elected: President, Jennie Stokes; vice president, Charlotte Reuter; secretary, Georgie Davis; treasurer, Zola Reynolds.

GOOD LOOKS MUST BE EARNED

What she eats and what she is, does not have to be asked of the growing girl who eats normally. Healthful habits become stamped on the face as "prima facie" evidence.
"I won't be fat" and "I want to be thin" are common rebellious comments against the dictates of healthful nature from the "teen age."

Wrong standards of beauty and health, comely slenderness and homely skinniness, have become confused. "Finicky" and inadequate eating, erroneously called "daintiness," are the causes of much recent interest increase in debility of the adolescent girl who starves herself for "beauty's sake." Without a sane knowledge of how to eat for health, she will only fool herself, but, not nature. Nature gets even in time, even if she has to take it out on the skin. Poor eating often shows in a sallow muddy complexion.

Radiant health cannot build on the "no breakfast habit" or that of coffee and doughnuts. Fruit, cereals, milk and toast are as necessary for an adequate breakfast at this second growth period as during earlier childhood. Milk cocoa can be used sometimes instead of plain milk; nut and raisin bread for toast; and raisins and dates instead of cereals. Generous use of fresh fruit adds minerals and the valuable zest to the appetite, which is often lacking from insufficient sleep and outdoor exercise. Continued lunches of "sundays" and rich pastry are detrimental to good looks. A lunch of cream vegetable soup, sandwich of date and cheese, glass of milk and baked pear satisfy both the appetite and the health program. Rich desserts and heavy salad dressings are not desirable. Calories are needed, especially for the girl athlete. Foods rich in calories such as dried fruits in puddings, fats in ice creams and chocolate malted milks, egg and cheese dishes with macaroni and rice are helpful.

The best growing food, milk, must always be included in the diet. A quart a day is ideal. The need in vitamins and minerals continues great, especially the iron. Eggs and green vegetables are essential.

Dainty dishes attract at this age, and learning how to prepare them often lures the girl to eat them. Achieving a reputation for crisp salads, frozen desserts, creamy hot chocolate and even plain ginger bread often leads to interest in food habits. Learning how to plan balanced menus at school is an incentive to try them out at home.

A clear skin, an erect, healthy body and a wholesome attitude toward work and play are undoubtedly products of good health habits.

Arboretum Gains Notice In Magazine

City Publication Recognizes Importance of Local Enterprise

Lengthy Article in Special Section Tells of Park Possibilities

So greatly was she impressed by the beauty and possibilities of the Bailey Canyon, now known as the Arboretum, that a Los Angeles newspaper woman devoted two columns in the Form and Orchard supplement in the Los Angeles Times to the project. She spent some time in the canyon in company with Arboretum officials, and upon her return to Los Angeles wrote the following article for her paper:

The little municipality of Sierra Madre is to be congratulated heartily, in that it has a group of men and women with sufficient vision, faith and courage to put across the project of an Arboretum and Botanic Garden, without waiting for large appropriations, or making "drives" for funds. Sierra Madre's Botanical Society has had an end in view, and has worked steadily, persistently, toward that end.

Someone had vision enough to see the possibilities of Bailey Canyon, which winds deep into the mountains, while on the south, toward the town, it opens out into a wide level space, admirable for experimental grounds, for the site of an administration building, open to the south, and as a place for the growing of tender things—tropical and sub-tropical plants. The sheltered slopes of the hillside make many types of vegetation possible, and as one climbs the canyon, going higher and higher, the flora and silva change for those of the higher altitudes. Indeed it would be hard to find the plant (except arctic ones), that could not be fitted with a situation fairly to its liking in Bailey Canyon.

It was the appreciation of its horticultural possibilities, and also the realization that this use of the lovely canyon would save it forever to the town as a place of beauty and enlightenment, that inspired Sierra Madre's Botanical Society with its zeal. Another canyon nearer the town and originally just as beautiful as Bailey Canyon, has been "developed"—cut up into tiny holdings—and as possibilities as a delightful place of recreation annihilated. Witnessing the fate of this canyon, undoubtedly added resolution to zeal, and a sort of "curfew-shall-not-ring-tonight" enthusiasm to the society's determination that Bailey Canyon should testify to the community's love of nature and of plants, rather than to its haste to indulge in the favorite California game of "turn-a-penny-in-real-estate."

At all events, through sympathetic interest of property owners, through public-spirited bequest and through cooperation from the city fathers, the canyon became the possession of the Sierra Madre Botanical Society. Water rights were obtained, and work began with the autumn planting season.

The Sierra Madre Botanical Garden is also interesting in that it is to be a matter of growth and evolution, rather than of fiat creation. School boys and girls are to have a hand in it; groups of Boy Scouts and Camp-fire girls will do some of the planting. This autumn they are sowing wild flower seed. If the plants that come up need rearrangement later, that can be done. One of the first undertakings has been the making of a trail leading far up the canyon, so that folks may acquaint themselves with it.

Extraordinary, when one comes to think of it, and most heartening to the layman, is the amount of admirable work for horticulture accomplished by people to whom it is a side-line and a hobby, while they earn their living at something else. Had it not been for Bishop Taylor's interest in trees, the eucalyptus might have stayed in its native Australia. The missionary, William Carey, began and carried on a noted botanic garden in India, and, when dying, his chief concern was that the garden would, in the hands of his successor, be neglected. Henry Laurens, Franklin's associate in the embassy to the court of France, began a botanical garden in Charleston, South Carolina—small, of course, but it was very interesting, and the memory of it still lingers.

Another point peculiarly interesting about the Sierra Madre garden, which should be encouraging to any who desire to follow the same path, is that neither plan, nor vision, was in the least of a professional fessionals and distinguished horticulturists—a plenty have come in since to aid and encourage. We are apt to think that only the horticulturally erudite can attempt such a thing. Inevitably, folk engaged in such a project become horticulturally erudite before they finish, and they may call in the services of one or another learned in this or that branch to aid in labeling or in placing. Professor Charles Sprague Sargent once told me that he hadn't the slightest idea, when he first became interested in trees, of becoming "an authority," but that he was interested, kept on being interested, and after a while found himself "fairly well versed in dendrology," as he expressed it. "Ten years' work at anything will make one an expert," he said.

The Sierra Madre garden has wonderfully interesting possibilities, of which no doubt those who are planning it will avail themselves. The infinite variety of landscape, of exposure, of altitude in the canyon, fairly "holler" for what one might call a dramatization of the botanical story. Our exhibitions are becoming more and more dramatic. At the museum of natural history, wherein, years ago, curators and directors were content and proud to display stuffed animals, ranged regularly, like crockery, on a shelf, they now do very differently. The visitor is allowed to see almost what the collector saw—a group feeding in a landscape as nearly like their home as possible. Collectors take infinite trouble to get not only specimens, but notes, so that the environment may be reproduced. This method, as revolutionary as was Audubon's when he depicted the bird in its environment and in a characteristic pose, has not yet, to any appreciable extent, affected the botanic garden, though it has reached the flower show. At the last dahlia show, for instance, Mr. Armacost displayed orchids growing, apparently, in a fairly realistic representation of a South American jungle.

There are bits of Bailey Canyon where it would be perfectly possible to reproduce the vegetation of another clime. For instance, at one place is a vertical face of rock. Here one could easily have a detail of northern New Hampshire—columbine and saxifrage finding a footing; blood-root and anemone at the foot; water slipping over the rock's surface; ferns of many kinds; young birch, and maple, and pine. Near the mouth of the canyon could be a bit of tropical jungle, and one of the bridges which span the stream might be of the slender, perilous type made by the natives in the Guianas. I am not saying the Sierra Madreans should give up realistic bits of various portions of the globe—but it would be amusing if they wanted to, and would make their botanic garden so diverting they would have to charge admission.

Here's success to their enterprise and compliments on their achievement!

Luxemburg Has Much to Attract the Tourist

About all the average person knows about Luxemburg is that it is a small country somewhere between Belgium and Germany, but the little country possesses some rare scenery. The country is as old as most of its neighbors, and Rome thought it important enough to fortify it, centuries ago. From its dual family have come queens of France and emperors of Germany. The city of Luxemburg is a rocky gem in a forest setting, and, according to Edwin Robert Peete, travel writer, from here one can look to Treves and Thionville, and not only into Germany but to London and the north of France, Arlon, Brussels and the coasts of Belgium. The old fortress of Vauburn has been modernized so that its gloom no longer shadows the city. When the visitor has seen its sights, such as the duke's palace, in Spanish Renaissance style, the Seventeenth century cathedral, its bridge and viaducts, the palace of the "Arbed," the Musée Pécator and its wonderful parks, he has before him some of the best motor roads in Europe for a spin through the duchy to see its other cities and towns.—Detroit News.

Officials To Greet Police Entertainers

Nick Harris and Company to Be Entertained at Fine Dinner

City officials, chamber of commerce leaders and representatives of the press will be on hand Thursday night to greet Nick Harris and company of Los Angeles, who will entertain Sierra Madre for the evening. The chamber of commerce, sponsoring an educational program for the police department of the community, has arranged for a dinner in honor of the visitors, to be given in the Masonic Temple at 6 o'clock, preceding the program.

The program itself will commence at 8 o'clock in the Woman's club house, and is open to the public without admission charge. In addition to the famous detective, Nick Harris, who will give his trunk lecture, there will be a talk and lantern slides presented by Sergeant Johnson of the Los Angeles Police department on the danger of disregarding traffic rules. Some very spectacular wrecks have been filmed and will be shown during the evening.

A feature of the entertainment will be selections by the well known known Police Quartet of Los Angeles, who arrive in Sierra Madre immediately after keeping a radio broadcasting engagement in Hollywood. A boy artist on the violin will also take part in the program, but will be unable to attend the dinner.

W. R. Humphries, president of the chamber of commerce; Secretary Gordon Brooks, Chief of Police E. H. Keegan, J. E. Carpenter, Gordon McMillen, W. D. Richards, Joe Eastwood and George Morgridge will attend the dinner, in company with the visitors from Los Angeles.

PREMIER OF 'SECOND YEAR' AT HOLLYWOOD

Especially engaged for the pre-holiday season "The Second Year," a new comedy by Fred Kennedy Myton, will have its Los Angeles premiere at the Hollywood Play House Friday, November 25th.

The cast for the production is expected by theatre officials to command considerable attention from the public, because it brings back to the legitimate stage two stars who deserted to motion pictures several years ago.

Theodore Von Elitz, well-known leading man of the screen, and Enid Markey, former stage luminary, vaudeville headliner, and picture star, head the cast.

"The Second Year" will be produced on the same lavish scale of preceding plays at the Hollywood Play House, according to the management. In spite of the additional expense required in obtaining the two stars, the usual low scale of prices will prevail, even for the opening night.

Mr. Myton has written an enthralling discussion of one of marriage's almost insoluble problems: whether or not a woman should continue a business career after the wedding ceremony. So skillfully has the writer constructed his play that no sermonizing is evident, however. The message comes in the guise of sparkling witticisms, laughable situations, and moments of affecting pathos.

"Meet the Wife," the current production at the Hollywood Play House, will have its final matinee and night showings Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 24th.

Fashion a Small Matter

Fashion is among the last influences under which a human being who respects himself or who comprehends the great end of life would desire to be placed.—William Ellery Channing

BUYING APPETIZERS

Appetite and digestion wait on vitamin B. If the family appetite lags, shop for vitamin B. This is not difficult, for the markets abound in vitamin B foods. In meats, the organs such as liver, kidneys, heart and brain have more of vitamin B than the much used muscle meats. Cereals are vitamin B staples for low cost diets, provided they are whole-grain products.

The "Irish Stew" of underground vegetables, such as potatoes, carrots, parsnips, turnips, onions is rich in vitamin B, while lettuce, spinach, cabbage and tomatoes supply abundantly all three vitamins, A, B, and C. To the vitamin B list may be added celery, bean sprouts, green beans and dried, and the more expensive cauliflower, asparagus and green peas. Milk is always a dependable source of vitamin B, for all members of the family. Egg yolk is rich in this vitamin, but rather expensive if rogenous use. Raw citrus fruits, apples and bananas are good sources of vitamin B and offer variety.

It must be remembered that improper cooking, as for instance spinach, boiled in a large quantity of water which is discarded loses much of the vitamin B value. Cook green vegetables a short time in as little water as possible. Dried vegetables have more vitamin B content than over-heated ones.

Vitamin B helps to produce normal growth which follows a good appetite and adequate digestion. The child especially needs vitamin B. Lack of vitamin B has been found to produce Beri-Beri, a nerve disorder with which men at sea, unable to secure fresh fruits, vegetables and whole grain products have been afflicted. Yeast is the richest vitamin B food-stuff and is sometimes given medicinally.

Every family member should cultivate a taste for plain, unrefined breadstuffs, root vegetables, raw fruits and vegetables aside from a generous use of milk to insure keeping a good appetite and digestion. — Christmas Seal Service.

Announcement of the arrival of twenty million Christmas Seals at the headquarters of the Los Angeles County Public Health Association, 1700 Michigan Avenue, Los Angeles, was made by Robert Mitchell, chairman of the Tuberculosis Committee, at the regular board meeting.

The work is solely financed through the sale of Christmas Seals, no funds are received from the Community Chest or any other source; also that the National and California Tuberculosis Associations urge that the seal sale be conducted separately from the Community Chest, both for its direct educational value and the guarantee of its continuance.

The quota set for the 1927 Christmas Seal sale in county territory is $40,000.00.

The report of the committee stated that 400 children were given training in proper nutrition, rest, posture and personal hygiene in fourteen summer health schools in various districts in the county during last July and August under the auspices of the Los Angeles Public Health Association as the means of prevention against tuberculosis, heart and other disorders.

The committee estimates that there are 4,000 children in the county in need of the health school training "the year-round" and outlined an extensive health program for 1928 centered around the building up the resistance of the children in the county.

Comprising the committee for the Prevention of Tuberculosis are: Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, county health officer; Robert Mitchell, Sierra Madre; Walter Malone, Montebello; Arthur Clifton, Monrovia; George W. Hunter, Claremont.

Demand for More Electric Ranges Seen by Company

There are more than 135 electric ranges used in Monrovia district. More than two thousand electric ranges have been sold to date this year on Southern California Edison Company lines, according to Fred Schwartz, local District Manager for the company. On the first of January 1927, the Edison Company had on its lines 9700 ranges. At the present time there are in excess of 11,800, which total is expected will be increased to at least 12,500 ranges by the intensive Hotpoint electric range campaign which is now being carried on by the allied electrical interests throughout the territory.

"People are becoming 'food conscious,'" said Mr. Schwartz. "More and more are people finding out that the old fashion methods of cooking are not only wasteful, but are in some cases positively injurious to the health. Electric heat with its absolute uniformity and its non-oxygen consuming elements, is more and more becoming the accepted ideal medium for cooking."

"Homes which are equipped with electric ranges," continued Mr. Schwartz, "are free from the necessity of frequent refinishing of kitchen wall surfaces, inasmuch as there is no paint defacing matter thrown off by the electric range."

"The electric range is no longer an experiment," said Mr. Schwartz. "The forward strides which have been made in the past seven years have placed it well in the forefront of efficient and useful cooking equipment. With the automatic features, which are possible with an electric range, and with the high speed cooking units which have been developed, the housewife, using this new equipment, has been liberated from the old time kitchen bonds and has had many hours of leisure time literally presented to her. 'Mother come out of the kitchen' has been adopted by the electrical industry of Southern California for the present Hotpoint range campaign, and the sentiment expressed by this slogan is borne out by the practice of electric range users."

Salute of Joy

Peu de Joie, a French expression meaning literally fire of joy, is a running discharge of firearms as a mark of rejoicing. A discharge of seven guns is thrice followed by a sequence of rifle shots proceeding from end to end of the ranks.
